If you're feeling bored with your current apps or recently got a new Android phone, you're in luck: Google just released its annual roundup of the best Android apps.

Some of the apps on the list are no surprise — like Pandora, Shazam, Uber, and Hulu — but there are plenty of others we had never heard of, like MAPS.ME for offline mapping, Minube for vacations and traveling, and Craftsy for craft classes.

Whether you're interested in social media, news, kid stuff, photography, financial planning, or travel, you'll discover something worthwhile on this 74-app list.
